What do you consider to be the instructor's strongest points as a teacher?

Students
Doing actual math problems on the board helped me to understand the concept and do well on the test.
His most vital points definitely have very concise and meaningful lectures that I somehow don't get tired of. I actually enjoy the way he teaches and he doesn't want to see his students fail.
Interest in the subject and overall understanding of well being of his students. He understands that we are people and always make sure to keep everyone engaged so that class is never boring.
Talking about current economic events that relate to the material that we are learning, also is very passionate during lectures!
Explaining topics thoroughly and going over examples in class on what students in the class were struggling with.
Always willing to help
His passion, willingness to adapt, general understanding of economics, and personability.
Interested in topic, explains things simply

What do you consider to be the instructor's weakest points as a teacher?

Students
I really liked the class and the structure.
There were a few instances where I would show up to office hour during scheduled time and he would not be in the office.
I cannot think of the instructor's weakest points.
Linkage of the material to real examples
Explaining topical problems in a way that makes sense to the class. Maybe going a bit too fast and not explaining each step in the process.
